U.S. Pavement Offers New Infrared Asphalt Repair Service Service is Green Approach to Patching

(Woburn, MA) — Feb.8, 2011— U.S. Pavement Services, Inc. (1-800-PAVEMENT), New England’s leading sealcoating and paving contractor, has just announced that it has added infrared asphalt repairs to its range of service offerings. Infrared repairs are available year-round, including winter months, and are more environmentally friendly. Click here to watch the Infrared Asphalt Repair video.

“Not only is infrared asphalt repairing the green approach to patching, but it’s the best pavement repair investment available.” said Mike Musto, president, U.S. Pavement Services. “This process provides customers with a cost-effective way to eliminate further damage, liability, deterioration, and pavement-related headaches.”

Infrared asphalt repair is truly the green approach to patching, because the asphalt is recycled in place. The repair process involves heating the asphalt to a working temperature of 300 degrees, penetrating the asphalt to a depth of 3” to 4.” After removing deteriorated asphalt and raking in new asphalt, the area is compacted with a vibratory roller. The process ties the edges of the new patch to the surrounding asphalt without seams.

The finished product has the same or better life expectancy as the surrounding asphalt. The Infrared repair cost is frequently 20+% less than removal scopes and involves considerably less down-time or impact on the property, so it won’t have a major impact on community residents or guests.

“With the recent weather conditions here in New England there are bound to be a lot of potholes, which can create serious liability issues in parking lot and roadway areas to pedestrians and vehicles,” said Musto. “Repairing potholes before liability issues arise can avoid fraudulent and unreasonable injury settlements.”
